The Inaugural Dr. James H. and Shirley H. Denton Endowed Memorial Scholarships were awarded to two outstanding rising junior Poultry Science students. Each student shows promise as future scientists in the industry and the academic research and teaching professions. The endowed scholarship honors the memory of Shirley Denton for her role in working with undergraduate students at both Texas A&M University and the University of Arkansas.

Mr. Nathan Anders, a Poultry Science student at Texas A&M University, was named the recipient of the Denton Scholarship at the April 14, 2018, Poultry Science Club Awards Banquet in College Station, Texas.

“Mr. Anders is enrolled in Poultry Science with a dual major in Agricultural Science. Nathan not only is clearly progressing in his studies he will also be an outstanding candidate for graduate studies for the M.S. and Ph.D. as a future scientist” stated Denton.

Mr. Nathan Anders was presented the scholarship by the Executive Director of the Poultry Science Association Foundation, Dr. James Denton.

Mr. Guillermo Tellez, Jr., a Poultry Science student at the University of Arkansas, was named the recipient of the Denton Scholarship at the April 24th Poultry Science Club End-of-Year Banquet, in Fayetteville, Arkansas.

“Mr. Tellez is a junior enrolled in the University of Arkansas Honors Program. He has an active research project and has presented his research on two occasions. He is clearly progressing in his desire to pursue the M.S. and Ph.D. He demonstrates excellent potential to develop as a future scientist” stated Denton.

The scholarships are intended to support rising juniors at Texas A & M University and the University of Arkansas, who have chosen Poultry Science as their field of study and have expressed an interest in graduate education for the M.S. and Ph.D. The Scholarship Awards were made possible through the Poultry Science Association Foundation “Charting Our Course-Securing Future Leadership for Poultry Capital Campaign”.
